Kilgore Trout Expands at Eton Chagrin Boulevard, Growing to almost 10,000 Square Feet

An Expanded Footprint for a Distinguished Fashion Destination

WOODMERE, OH (March 5) — Kilgore Trout, the Cleveland original known for its best-in-class apparel curation and exceptional personal service, is expanding its footprint at Eton Chagrin Boulevard to almost 10,000 square feet.

The expansion reflects Kilgore Trout’s continued success at Eton and its long-standing connection to Northeast Ohio. By incorporating adjacent space, the retailer will expand its curated collection of luxe men’s and women’s apparel brands from around the globe, allowing for a broader assortment, enhanced merchandising, and an elevated in-store experience—while preserving the unhurried, relationship-based service the brand is known for.

Founded in 1977 by Wally Naymon and influenced by European fashion of the time, Kilgore Trout was created “to present an alternative, modern kind of store to Cleveland.” More than four decades later, the brand remains proudly independent and continues to serve generations of clients—including the “Sons and Daughters of Trout”—through a passionate team of style advisors focused on helping customers look good and feel great.

“Kilgore Trout is a true Cleveland original and an incredible success story at Eton,” said Bob

Stark, President & Chairman at Stark Enterprises. “Their expansion underscores the strength of locally owned, experience-driven retailers and the momentum we continue to see at Eton Chagrin Boulevard.”
